In 2013, educators, parents, students and community members met together in town halls across the state and developed a vision for the future of public education in New Mexico. This vision includes: well-funded schools; well-rounded, culturally-relevant curriculum; high-quality early education; dedicated and respected educators; well-maintained and safe schools; and support to succeed regardless of family income. On January 20th, we will present this vision at the Roundhouse in Santa Fe.
